On the cover

America's government has woken up to the dangers of artificial intelligence: leader, page 9. Why Anthropic and OpenAI are locking up their latest models, page 64. AI's dangerous new hacking tools, page 76. Could AI's gods become as powerful as Ford or Rockefeller? Page 62. China's Communist Party frets over how AI will affect jobs, security—and its own power, page 26

The food shock from Iran

Millions will go hungry if the Strait of Hormuz stays closed, page 59, and leader, page 14. After the ceasefire, what next? Page 44, and leader, page 10

Split levels: Divorce in China

Women are defying the state's efforts to keep marriages together, page 28

Venezuela after Maduro

The country has become a better place since its president was seized. But it is not a template for intervention elsewhere: leader, page 12. Although the economy and politics are improving, Venezuela is hardly the triumph Donald Trump claims: briefing, page 19

J.D. Vance, righteous hypocrite

The vice-president has propounded many theories of Trumpism. They are proving no match for the practice: Lexington, page 35
