COVER STORY

NEW ERA, NEW HOPES

With a new government in place in Bangladesh, India has a cautious chance to rebuild trust, while also gaining room for a more steady and wide-ranging engagement

INTERVIEWS:

- ▶ India and Bangladesh share deep historical, cultural, economical and educational ties. At the same time, certain unresolved issues remain
—Dr Ziauddin Hyder, adviser to Tarique Rahman, prime minister

- ▶ The Siliguri corridor is well protected, and our formations there are formidable
—Kiren Rijju, Union minister

Supporters of the Bangladesh Nationalist Party celebrate the party's poll victory in front of a banner with Tarique Rahman's photo in Dhaka

CURRENT EVENTS

Though the motion against Om Birla will almost certainly fail, it serves a political end

50

TAMIL NADU

The Stalin government is wooing women voters in the state. Will they consolidate behind Stalin the way they once did with Jayalalithaa?

58

TECHNOLOGY

An engineer brings the cold-water fish to Hyderabad, and the Union government seems interested

74 LAST WORD
Mahua Moitra

It beggars belief that not only does

Hardeep Singh Puri fail to realise his responsibility to protect our country from his association with a convicted pedophile but that he lies and gaslights anyone who points this out to him. He owes it to the nation to apologise and resign.

PLUS:

- ▶ Bangladesh can progress, if its leadership displays the necessary sagacity —M.J. Akbar, author and former Union minister
- ▶ Preventing Bangladesh from being drawn into the Islamist revolution is vital for India —M.K. Narayanan, former national security adviser
